Stewardship: When the Son of Man comes in glory, may we be among those who have fed the hungry, welcomed the stranger, and clothed the naked. For Jesus tells us clearly that it is those who have demonstrated good stewardship by sharing their gifts with the less fortunate who will receive the God's blessing and inherit the kingdom.

CAER Food Pantry: Items being collected for the month of November are paper products: toilet paper, Kleenex, paper towels. There is a basket in the gathering area of church for your donations. The CAER Center now has a facebook page: Caer Chesaning. You may also email them at: caerchesaning@gmail.com

A Reflection of the Gospel from Living Liturgy

2017: This gospel and solemnity invites us to draw on the strength of the Christ who dwells within us to reach out to the Christ in the other. This gospel is about future judgment; it is even more about present discipleship.

So much about this gospel speaks to us of Christ's glory and power ("When the Son of Man comes in his glory," "all the nations will be assembled before him," "king will say") and rightfully it should. However, there is a remarkable surprise in the gospel. The surprise is that on this festival honoring Christ the King both the gospel and the first reading speak about others who need our help and caring for them. We honor Christ the King by acknowledging that he is in the other and within us. He showed up by his very life how to care for others. So must we spend our lives in this way.

One of the best ways we can begin to see Christ in the other is by not judging the negative aspects of their person first, but instead looking for the good in the other. This can be carried out in such a simple Christian practice as seeking always to compliment rather than to criticize another. Care that we don't spread gossip is another way. Perhaps the first and most important task of being good subjects of Christ the King is to live as he did—not simply seeing with the eyes, but seeing with hearts responding to the dignity of others, to their need for healing, forgiveness, reconciliation, compassion, mercy, love.
