A Reflection of the Gospel from Living Liturgy

2017: The gospel this Sunday is about bread. However, this bread is surely not mass-produced in some factory. It is not even artfully crafted in some small bakery or home kitchen, as special as that is. This bread is unique, unequaled, unsurpassed in its nourishment. This bread is more than a staple of life. It is Life.

In the gospel Jesus is the bread that is the living bread; this is all we need to “live forever.” The reasoning is simple enough: by partaking of Jesus’ Body and Blood we become what we eat—we become the “one body” in which we all share. This is the “Holy Communion” that assures us of who we are as baptized Christians—the Body of Christ. This is why Eucharist is (and remains throughout our life) a sacrament of initiation: we are constantly being fed on the Bread of Life and constantly drawn more deeply into being who we are—members of the one Body of Christ.

As members of Christ’s Body, we are to be his life poured out in our everyday good living. We are to give our life—his life!—unreservedly for others.

It is far too easy for us to file out of pews into the Communion line, receive, return, leave after Mass is over, and get on with our lives. The food and drink that Jesus offers us in this memorial celebration requires of us conscious preparation, deliberate partaking, and ongoing savoring by how we live. This means becoming more aware of others’ needs and responding to them; it means doing our everyday tasks well and out of love; it means being honest, just, and forgiving. Eternal life is the fruit of our transformation in Christ. We are to remain in him and are sent to be his Presence in the world.
